Overview

Unit 2: Working in Health and Social Care

This unit will help you to understand what it is like to work in the health and social care sector. You will learn about maintaining the safety of and safeguarding individuals with health and social care needs, making sure that you properly handle their personal information and preventing discrimination towards them. You will need to understand how you will be accountable to individuals and the organisations that regulate them. You will develop an understanding of how you will be monitored in health and social care settings. You will look at the range of roles and general responsibilities of people who work in these settings. You will learn about the organisations that provide services in this sector, and the different settings in which these services are delivered according to the needs of the service user. You will learn about the ways these services are provided and about the barriers that can prevent people from getting the services they need.

This unit will be assessed through one examination of 80 marks lasting 1 hour and 30 minutes.

Unit 5: Meeting Individual Care and Support Needs.

This unit focuses on the values and principles of meeting care and support needs and looks at some of the ethical issues around personalising care. You will examine factors that can impact the professionals who provide the care and support, and the challenges that must be overcome to allow individuals to access good quality care and health services.

You will explore the different methods used by professionals across all care services and reflect on these methods when you consider the importance of multi-agency working in providing a package of care and support that meets all the needs of individuals.

Assessed through coursework internally assessed, externally moderated.
